PRINCIPAL'S THOUGHTS

We want to state for the record how very proud we feel of our teaching and support staff. The manner in which they approach each day shows how dedicated they are to our students. We are all spending many hours each day focusing on wellbeing, and providing support to students and families. Our staff have quickly adapted to and embraced this way of working, which in many ways is more difficult than being at school. Teaching is always a very demanding job, but working, and especially communicating remotely, has made it more complicated than ever. However, in true Ranfurly style, our teachers and support staff have embraced this work with dedication and commitment and we feel very proud of them.

We have now completed over 10 days of Learning at Home, but to us it actually feels like more than that. We sincerely hope that life at home is starting to settle down now; especially for all of our students, and that they are finding comfort in some new routines. It is important in this period of change that we are kind to ourselves, and patient with each other, as much as possible. We want to again say a sincere thanks to our students and parents for their positive feedback about the Home Learning activities. Even though it's only been a short time, our teachers are already starting to find new and interesting ways of presenting the learning and communicating with their classes. Some teachers are putting the work on Google Classroom, developing morning 'check ins' via video or chat greetings, whilst others are making great video presentations. This is well received by our students who are excited to see their teacher's faces.

Expectations and home circumstances vary greatly across families – what one family sees as too much work another may see as not enough. To best meet everyone's needs we are following the DET expectations and providing enough work daily with at least two to three hours for Grade P-2 and three to four hours for Grade 3-6. With breaks included, this should keep many students busy with learning for a good portion of the day.

We would like to congratulate Corinne Shore and the ten school leaders for their excellent video presentation last Friday to commemorate our Ranfurly ANZAC Day Ceremony. Very well done!
